THE CYSTIC FIBROSIS ASSOCIATION OF N.S.W.

What is Cystic Fibrosis ?

C/F is one of the most common of the grave, chronic diseases affecting Australian infants and children. It is a genetic disorder which restricts normal functioning of the lungs and pancreas. Cystic fibrosis produces a thick mucus which clogs the lungs and air passages. It causes breathing difficulties, and increases susceptibility to infection. It also impairs the pancreas, causing digestive complications. Cystic fibrosis needs daily treatment including medication and physiotherapy.

Objectives.

- a. RESEARCH — funds are urgently required to finance medical research.
- b. WELFARE — financial support is given to offset the cost of treatment for C/F children.
- c. EDUCATION — creating public awareness of the existence of C/F, to ensure early diagnosis and treatment.
